INVESTIGATE CONVICT'S CLAIMS

SENATE APPOINTS A COMMITTEE TO LOOK INTO THEM.

Johnson Claims He is Not the Man Wanted—The School Bill and the Agricultural Bill Passed.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, March 5.—The House passed the agricultural department bill and the school bill.

The debate on the latter bill was heard by all the students of the Baptist Female University.

The speaker of the South Carolina House of Representatives was given a seat beside speaker Moore. He is visiting his brother, the representative from Iredell.

The Senate passed the bill to investigate the case of convict J. M. Johnson, who claims that he is not Charles Bechtler.

OPTIONARY DISPENS'Y LAW.

Judge Connor Was Supposed to Be Ready to Champion Such a Bill.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

I see in yesterday's paper a suggestion that the Legislature be asked to pass a general dispensary bill. This is a good move, so let the good work go on. A general bill so framed as to allow a city, town, township or county to call an election on an off year and say by a majority of the qualified votes cast, whether to have a dispensary or saloons would take this much vexed question out of politics and give future Legislatures a rest. The dispensary question is here to stay and the sooner the Legislature realizes this fact, the better it will be for the party in power. It was generally understood over the State that Judge Connor would champion such a bill, but up to this time nothing has been done.

Let the papers take up this matter, urge the people to write Judge Connor and it is my opinion that he will write a bill that will meet all requirements and give perfect satisfaction. This is Democracy pure and simple and will give all section an opportunity to say whether they want a dispensary or open saloons. I would be glad to see this matter taken up and disposed of at this sitting of the Legislature. I would be glad for others to speak out and get the ball in motion. It will have to come and why not now? DEMOCRAT.

The handsome Knabe Grand piano to be used by Mr. Perry at his Piano Recital Friday night has already arrived. It is a beauty.

"Herrman the Great," accompained by his wife, arrive. on the noon train from the east and is stopping at the Guilford. He appears at the Academy tonight.

Two men evidently hailing from the mountain districts, were found this morning walking up and down the corridor on the esecond floor of the Southern yLoan & Trust Company building, trying to find a place as they expressed it, "to get out." They were in dead earnest in asking a passerby how to "get out' and were much relieved to get to terra firma once again.

GENERAL GREENE'S GRAVE.

It is Said to Have Been Discovered at Savannah, Ga.

A press dispatch from Savannah, Ga., dated yesterday, says:

"A joint commission of the Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati, and the Georgia Historical Society, headed by Col. Asa Bird Gardiner, president of the former, this afternoon, discovered the remains of General Nathanael Greene, of the Revolution. They were in the vault of General Jones, in the Colonial Cemetery. No interment had been made in the vault in 100 years. The name plate of General Greene's coffin,rusted fragments of his sword, a number of colonial army buttons and the general's skull were discovered. The identification seems perfect.

"There was no doubt as to where the remains rested. The Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati desired to erect a memorial to General Greene, its first president. It made an appropriation and commissioned its president, Col. Gardiner, to discover his burial place. The search has proceeded in the Colonial Cemetery here since last Thursday and was rewarded only this afternoon. It has not yet been decided what will be done with the bones and relics."

These may or may not be the remains of General Greene, but the societies are to be commended in their work. After Washington himself General Greene, of Rhode Island, was undoubtedly the foremost General of the Revolution. In a spirit of gratitude for what he did in ridding the South of the British, the Legislature of Georgia voted him a large tract of land and he went to reside there and remained till his death. Numerous efforts have been made to find his body, but they being unsuccessful, throws a doubt of the genuineness of this discovery.

Some days ago Maj. Jos. M. Morehead wrote to Col. Gardner and tendered him a spot at the Guilford Battle Ground for the monument which the Cincinnati propose to erect to General Greene, and added that this ground is unquestionably "the field of his fame."

Anecdote of Caruthers.

When Mr. J. A. Hodgin came in this morning to see the linotype chew some lead, he spied the picture of Dr. Caruthers, and told a good anectode which he had heard regarding the equanimity of the good old bachelor minister. The doctor always had a fire made in his room some time during the day, winter and summer. On the night when "the stars fell" in 1833, is waiting boy rushed in fearful terror to the Doctor's room to rouse him up, crying, "Git up Doctor, the world is coming to an end, oh Lordy." The Doctor replied in even terms, "Well, go ahead and make my fire, and I'll get up and see about it."

Election Judges Appointed.

Friday evening the Round Table. the faculty club, held its meeting with Dr. Chas. Baskerville. The subject discussed was the problem of child labor in the industries. Dr. Baskerville presented the subject which was informally discussed by the club.

During the week Mr. Weston R. Gales has been conducting a series of meetings under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association and the University. His sermons have been forceful appeals and considerable interest has resulted. Two services a day have been held.

KING EDWARD CONCILIATORY.

A HOPEFUL REMARK WHILE HE WAS PRINCE OF WALES.

He is Reported to Have Said to a Dutch South African that the English Would be Generous—Believed to Still Feel Thus.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, March 5.—Those who favor the settlement of the South African war on liberal terms have had their spirits raised by an interview just published, but which took place two months ago between King Edward, then Prince of Wales, and Adrian Hufmeyer, of Cape Town, a prominent Dutch South African.

The King is reported as having said: "Tell your people, that though we are conquerors, we will be generous." It is believed that the Prince, now King, still holds these sentiments, and that he is desirous of giving the former Dutch republics a liberal form of self-government, and that Sir Alford Milner will carry out his wishes in this respect.

Croker improving.

By Wire to The Telegram:

New York, March 5.—A London special says that Richard Croker said today: "I ask that my friends in New York be informed that I am constantly improving in health, and I believe my strength will gain faster here than in America in the next few months." This statement is considered significant as an apparent denial of the stories that Croker is coming home.

An Old Baltimore Caterer Who Was Not Behind Others of Degree.

"When you mention the name of John Reilly you touch a reminiscent chord in the hearts of hundreds of the older residents of Baltimore," remarked a well-known gentleman the other day, says the Sun.

"John Reilly," he continued, "many years ago kept a saloon on South street. It was a popular rendezvous and always crowded. It was then the only place in the city where one could get old ale on draught, and his oysters—well, they were indescribable. His fried oysters were savory enough to tempt a man to evil; the raw box was a continual source of delight, and the savory stews served drove away the weightiest of business cares.

"Reilly was a jolly old man, full of native wit and sparkling with keen repartee. His place came to be the favorite resort of the most brilliant men of his day.

"On one occasion Reilly had to journey to Philadelphia on business. It was in the time of the old stage coaches, and he made his way leisurely along. Upon arriving there he registered at one of the leading hotels. That leads up to my story.

"At that time it was customary for men to add to their signatures such titles or evidences of dignity as they possessed. When Reilly looked over the hotel register he saw something like this:

"John Jones, LL. D.
"William Smith, A. M., A. B.
"Samuel Johnson, D. D.

"Seizing a pen he inscribed the following: 'John Reilly, F. R. S.' Then he went about his business and spent a pleasant and profitable afternoon.

"Returning to the hotel at night he was met by a committee of leading and learned citizens They greeted him with great deference and expressed their gratification that such a distinguished man should be in their midst. He was urgently requested to deliver a lecture before some scientific body during his stay. You see, they judged from the mystic letters on the hotel register that he was a fellow of the royal society and had come to do him honor.

"Reilly was a man of imposing personal appearance. He made himself very agreeable to the committee, but could not name a date for the lecture. When they left him a friend asked the reason of the demonstration.

"'What do you mean by writing the letters "F. R. S." after your name, anyway?' he asked.

"'Well,' replied Mr. Reilly, with a merry twinkle of the eye, 'they mean "Fried, raw and stewed," and I serve the best in Baltimore.'"

Churches of St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg's churches are the most splendid of any modern churches in the world.

Mr. Ireland's Dream.

"Dreams are the children of an idle brain,
Begot of nothing but vain fantasy,
Which is as thin of substance as the air,
And more inconsistent than the wind,
Which woos even now the frozen bosom of the North."

This was the opinion of Mr. Shakespeare of dreams, but there are plenty of folks who don't believe what he says about it. It is doubtless a fact that more than fifty per cent. of people have a tinge of superstition regarding dreams. It is certian that our dreams come in such unaccountable ways that it is hard to escape a peculiar feeling. A case in point, and a very apt one, found its denouement in the Odell fire this morning. Sunday morning Mr. C. H. Ireland, of that company, related to a dream which he had had the previous night .It was that he was up in the third story,hearing a man down stairs, he looked over the stairs and asked him what he was doing. "I am burglarizing this store," was the reply, "and I have set this building on fire, but I will come up and help put it out." The fire occurred exactly where Mr. Ireland dreamed it would. This cannot be scoffed at on the ground that something about the fire suggested the dream, because the dream occurred and was talked about two nights and two days before the fire. And surely the dream did not cause the fire, so how are we to connect the two. What soothsayer will tell us?

Fire at Odell's

This morning about nine o'clock an alarm of fire was turned in from the box corner of South Elm and Washington streets. The fire was located on the third floor of the Odell Hardware Company's store, among a lot of horse collars. As soon as the fire was discovered the clerks and office force in the store formed themselves into a bucket brigade, and soon had the flames under control. The firemen laid their hose to the store doors but did not turn on the water,as they were not needed.

The fire started from a match in the hands of a clerk who was looking for a collar. The collars were piled to a considerable height and the room being dark, he coud not see the bottom collars, so he struck a match and immediately the whole pile was in a blaze.

As soon as the fire was extinguished the damaged collars were thrown to the street. The loss was slight, and probably all told did not exceed fifty dollars.

Judge Scales Here.

Judge Wallace N. Scales arrived last night from Idaho. He came alone. He had planned to come with his family to visit his mother,the late Mrs. J. I. Seales, last fall, but for some reason, the trip was postponed, and he thus, all unconsciously, was deprived of ever again seeing his mother. He could not reach home in time to be present at the funeral. He will be here some time.

Siler City vs. Liberty.

Special to The Telegram.

Siler City, March 4.—One of the most exciting games of the season was witnessed at Liberty, Saturday, between Siler City Institute and the Liberty team. The score resulted in a tie of 8 to 8, at the end of the ninth inning, but in as much as the home team was unable to provide the regulation number of balls, and one in a condition with which to play the latter part of the game, it was declared in favor of Siler. The manager has arranged other games with the best schools in the State.

Mr. T. G. Frasier is confined to his room on Gorrell street with the grip. Mr. Frasier is the third of the five men on the retail side of the Odell Hardware Co., to be laid up with the disease, and their being out is causing the remaining two salesmen to move in a hurry to wait on the trade.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Shevel went to Danville this morning.

THE EDUCATION OF THE NEGRO.

PRESIDENT DUDLEY ARGUES THAT IT SHOULD BE PRACTICAL.

Agriculture, Which is the Avocation of 80 Per Cent of the People of the State Should be Taught and Teachers Should be Trained to Teach It.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

Education is expensive but it is admitted by all thoughtful men that it is cheaper than ignorance. An ignorant element is a fearful incubus upon any community, and fosters rapists and criminals of almost every variety.

It is sometimes said that negro education is a failure, but this conclusion can scarcely be made by persons who saddle upon education the crimes of that element of the race over which the schools have but little influence and with which the schools come in little or no contact.

The value of education to us and to the State depends largely upon the kind given—the practicability of the same.

It is generally admitted upon all sides by intelligent whites as well as blacks that industrial education is the most useful form for the negro and the masses. If this is so, is it not clear that the teachers should be given this form of education so that they may carry it to the masses through the common schools of the State?

In New York, Pennsylvania and other states manual training in some elementary form is taught in the common schools. A beginning could and should be made in the common schools of our state.

With eighty or eighty-five per cent of our peopleurrectly dependent upon the farm, the common schools are teaching practically nothing which bears directly upon the prospective vocaion of the great bulk of their pupils. We note with disapproval the tide of migration sweeping from the country to the cities and towns swelling the crowds of loafers, idlers and criminals. Might not the volume of this constant flow be reduced if our rural schools could be used to make our farm homes more interesting, attractive and happy to their inmates and more valuable to our State?

This is done elsewhere and why not in North Carolina? Twenty-five thousand teachers are engaged in nature studies in the state of New York. In Continental Europe Agriculture is prominent in the curricula of the rural schools. In France twenty-eight thousand schools have their gardens attached which are as important adjuncts at the school-room as the black board. In Germany, Russia, Canada, and in some states of our own country the wisdom of te.ching elementary Agriculture in the common schools has been thoroughly tested and is no longer considered an experiment.

If these subjects bearing directly upon daily life could be carried into our common schools, if cooking, sewing, laundering, carpentry or manual training in some form could be carried into our city schools, if agriculture, the most ancient and honorable of all vocations, could be carried into our rural schools the State would undoubtedly reap far greater returns for its expenditures made in behalf of negro education and those who claim that "to educate a negro is to spoil a field hand" would be made to applaud the results.

Now if the foregoing is correct, if industrial education is the best form for the masses, how are the masses to receive such unless the teachers are trained where industrial education is taught? At the A. & M. College every student receives manual training in some form. Agriculture to some extent enters into every course. Teachers trained here would be made to teach agriculture, cooking, sewing, or some branch of handicraft in the common schools. For this reason we believe and we urge that it would be a blessing to the colored people of North Carolina, as it would be a blessing to the State itself if a normal department could be established at the A. & M. in connection with the existing departments of agriculture, of mechanics, and of domestic science.

THE RECORD OF GUNNER MORGAN.

A Most Brilliant One—He is Said to Be Every Inch a Gentleman Though no Straps Have Shown on His Shoulders

Atlanta Constitution.

New Orleans, February 28.—(Special.)—The Crescent City continues stirred from the conventional "center to circumference" over "Teacup" Sampson's sour letter concerning the promotion sought by the popular and able Gunner Morgan—he was presented a handsome sword and medal by his fellow citizens.

Epitomized, this is the career of the ambitious young gunner to date:

He was born of reputable parents in New Orleans in 1866.

He went to school until he was sixteen years old.

At the age o. seventeen he enlisted "in the third class"—the bottom of the ladder—in the United States navy.

Throughout his early training—as, indeed, throughout his life—he was noted for his bravery, intelligence and quickness of decision. In personal appearance, in personal behavior, in personal conduct, he was uniformly a gentleman, although straps shown not on his shoulders.

He was passed to the chief gunship with a faultless record.

He plotted the defense of Rio de Janerio so satisfactorily that he was praised by the navy department.

He won for the United States navy the international marksmanship medal during the Victoria jubilee.

He again won the marksmanship prize in the United States competition.

He was transferred to the battleship Maine when it went to Havana, but on account of delay in transmission of papers was not aboard the ship at the time of the disaster.

He was the chief reliance of the Maine investigation committe in Havana harbor and held the record among the divers who took prt in that work.

He fired the first gun of the Spanish war at the bombardment of San Juan.

He was intrusted with the fitting out of the Merrimac before Hobson took her to be sunk in the entrance of Santiago harbor.

When Rear Admiral Sampson planned to force an entrance to Santiago harbor, Gunner Morgan was put in command of the expedition by which two small launches were to make the desperate venture of countermining the torpedoes of that dangerous channel.

He was the only officer of the United States navy who was given a sword by his townspeople during the course of the war.

He was given a sword and a diamond medal by the people of New Orleans; a sword by the people of Erie, Pa.; a sword by the citizens of New York, and another sword by friends of his in New Jersey.

At the risk of his life he rescued in a runaway accident members of Senator Matthew Stanley Quay's family.

While stationed at Newport, R. I., he was made seceretary of the Laurence Club, and was a welcome guest at the Belmont-Vanderbilt wedding.

On Februay 13, 1901, he modestly made aplication for promotion to the rank of ensign in the United States navy.

"I served on the flagship New York during your command of the fleet; you will know whetеher my abilities, whatever they may be, are of such merit as to warrant me in filling the position of ensign," he wrote in his letter to Rear Admiral Sampson. "If in your estimation I am worthy of this position, I should be most grateful to you if you will recommend me to the department."

On February 14th Rear Admiral Sampsonrefused to indorse favorably Morgan's appplication for promotion on the ground thatMorgan "had not the social advantages that are requisite for a commissioned officer."

Charles Morgan has a sister and a brother now living in New Orleans. His sister, who is unmarried, is an exceedingly beautiful woman who lives with her aged father. His brother is in charge of one of the largest wholesale oyster houses in the city.

MR. WU TELLS OF CHINESE RESPECT FOR US

Mr. Wi Ting Fang Denies Having Said that the Whites and Blacks of This Country Should Inter-Marry.

Wu Ting Fang,the Chinese Minister, Kogora Tkahira, the Japanese Minister,; Senator J. M. Thurston, of Nebraska; Senator J. H. Gallinger, of New Hampshire; Colonel Charles F. Homer, George T. Wilson and the Charles D. Shaw, of Pattersan, all taked to the Silk Association of America, at its annual dinner at Delmonico's last night, says the New York Sun of a recent date. The diners were seated at small tables, and about fifty were present. Among them were Mr. Ploda, the swiss Minister, and the consuls of China and Japan in thiscity, Chow Tszchi an S. Uchida.

While a number of reporters were waiting in an upstairs room for the affair to begin his excellency, Wi Ting Fang, appeared among them in all the magnificence of his purple gown and claret-colored tunic, and with a diamond as big as your thumb nail glittering in the front of his black cap. He surveyed the reporters with a benevolent smile and said:

"These are newspaper men? I thought so. Ihave a message to give you in which I am very anxious to convey to the people who read your very excellent newspapers. I came up here to contradict a statement which was sent abroad by a western newspaper in which I was grievously misrepresented as saying things which did not say about the intermarriage of black people and white people in this co untry. I never said I favored such a solution of what is called in this country the race difficulty."

Mr. Wu then told how the reporter of a Cleveland newspaper had boarded a train on which he was traveling to St. Louis and asked him for an opinion on the burning of a negro boy in Colorado.

"I told him nat in China there is no race question. We have found in China—so I told him—that when other nations marry among us the children are not so smart as our own Chinese chidren, that they are not in any way so bright. But we have found an exception to this in the Anglo-Saxons. When Anglo-Saxons marry Chinese the children are even brighter than our own.

"The reporter then asked me if I meant to recommend intermarriage with the Anglo-Saxon people of this country as a cure for your so-called race question. I said I knew nothing of the negro. There are no negroes in China. We already have too many troubles and matters requiring thought in our own affairs to meddle with things we know nothing about."

* * * * * * * *

Mr. Wu was introduced while the orchestra played the "Viceroy" march. The march pleased Mr. Wu's hosts very much and they pranced up and down and beat upon their glasses with their knives and forks while Mr. Wu contemplated them with his usual calm smile. When they were through cheering him he said:

"Mr. Toastmaster; gentlemen, and members of this association. It is a great pleasure and an honor to me to be here again for this secon time. It is an unfeigned pleasure to hear just now the music of my country (laughter). It reminds me of my fatherland, and indeed it cures me of homesickness. (Laughter.) I have been here some years and I often think of my home, but now this evening is a real comfort to me to a certain extent, to hear my native music. (Laughter).

"But, seriously speaking I am not in a mood for speaking tonight. Your association did me the honor to confer upon me honorary membership, and being an honorary member of this association I was indeed very sorry to hear just now the poor state of your business. (Laughter.) I thought I

E. F. BEASLEY, Editor and Manager

TUESDAY, MARCH 5

Professor Watts of Iredell yesterday, at high noon, performed as follows from his seat in the House:

Mr. Speaker:—I rise to a question of the highest privilege. At this moment Marion Butler, the renegade, is no longer Senator from North Carolina. Geo. H. White, the insolent negro, who has so long misrepresented the proud people of North Carolina in the Congress of the United States, has retired from office forever. We have a white man's government in every part of the old State, and from this good hour no negro will again disgrace the old State in council chambers of the nation. For these mercies, thank God.

We believe that this is the first time the Professor has arisen as a special privilege since the occurrence of some recent and particular history. We hope the Professor will not begin to feel the necessity of arising too often. It is too painful to the public. He may be excused this time however, on the ground that, as a new convert, he is entitled to show unusal zeal. Nobody in this State has any respect for Butler, the renegade, and a good many persons have none for the would-be renegades who sought in Butler's day of power, an alliance with him, even though they may now speak of him in the most unmeasured terms and in spectacular fashion.

An exchange says:

The Statesville Landmark reports that the State is being flooded with copies of a certain newspaper containing the arguments made by members of the House in favor of impeachment. No speech nor synopsis of a speech by those opposing impeachment is given, but the skilfully prepared arguments of the impeachment leaders are given in full. The Landmark very properly condemns this outrageous effort to prejudice public opinion by showing only one side of the picture deserves severest condemnation.

We notice also that a certain newspaper which loudly proclaims that the press and public cannot with propriety speak on the subject, is filling its columns with arguments for impeachment, and by attempting to draw parallels between this cse and the impeachment of Holden.

Our dispatch yesterday spoke of the great splendor of the inaugral scene in Washington. The more elaborate accounts of the morning papers show it to have been truly a scene of magnificence. Some of the brethren are even going so far as to say that it was the "coronation" of the Emperor and the ushering in of the empire.

MR. WU TELLS OF CHINESE RESPECT FOR US.

would have the pleasure tonight of congratulating you on the success you met with last year; but I am deeply grieved at the reverse being the case. (Laughter.) Gentlemen, there are ups and downs in this life. We cannot help it. Show me a man who in his life never met with some reverse.

"Therefore, gentlemen, be of good cheer. Be not disheartened. Go on with your work. But there is one consolation to me, and that is that you have done something for your people, because by your overproduction and by the abundance of your manufacture you have enabled the poorest of this nation to wear silk, which is not so, I am sory to say, in my own land. (Laughter.)

"The toast I am to respond to tonight is 'The Youngest Great Nation of the World in the Eyes of the Oldest Great Nation.' Gentlemen, it is a well known maxim— and I think it has proved so in our experience—that as a man grows older he becomes wiser, and in my country especially when a man grows old he commands more respect. But, although your nation is the youngest, I think I am justified in saying that it commands as great repect as the oldest nation on the earth.

"You deserve this, not on account of your age, but on account of your wisdom, of your intelligence and of your enterprising spirit and activity." (Applause.)

THE EDUCATION OF THE NEGRO.

Thus briefly and hurriedly I advance this important subject to your consideration without taking the time or space to make barest reference to a number of favorable arguments which will readily occur to any reflective mind.

PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE.

Progressive Farmer.

We stepped off the train at a prosperous little North Carolina town a few days ago and found our way to a country bording house nearer than the hotel. An itinerant photographer was mounting his recently taken work. Among them we noticed a group picture and made some inquiries about it. This was a group of cotton factory hands, the night crew of one of the two mills in the town.

We counted about twenty-five boys and forty young girls, with men and women, in the group. If we are not mistaken in faces and stature, at least twenty boys and thirty girls are very young and several of the little girls in the foreground ought to be in a kindergarten school, or at home playing with dolls by day and asleep at night rather than, at their early age, working for wages at night.

This photo of a night crew of a Catawba county cotton mill ought to be seen by every member of the Legislature. The photographer assured us that the party was dressed up for the picture in many cases so they do not present the every-night appearance. Neither does it show the oil pimples and sallow complexions to be seen among these operatives as well as others. The sight and thoughts of little children working all night ought to make Legislators "lie awake o'nights" for thinking of their own responsibility in the matter. It should not be allowed.

We wish all readers of these lines could appreciate the full force of Charles Read's "Put Yourself in His Place" in connection with these cotton factory children.

What mother would want her seven to ten-year-old little girl to spend eleven to twelve and a half hours in nightly toil? What prospects and opportunities does it cut off? What are the benefits? Some one is getting rich, probably, but what of the future of these people whose hope of posterity depends on the training and future lives of these little ones? What interest has the State in this business? Can this be harmonized with the recent pledges to do so much for the education of the future men of North Carolina?

Money is being coined no doubt by this practice. Parents are consenting to a blighting of the lives of their offspring. If the State takes no action to prevent, it may be said to passively aid and foster the practice, and to accept the untold responsibility of the future from a degenerating population.

Do we honor and make easy terms with wealthy mill owners and leave the helpless striplings and babes in their innocent ignorance of the wrong being done in robbing them of the freedom and blessings of childhood and the right to grow up in free schools to young manhood and womanhood to become the staunch bulwarks of homes and states?

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely cin face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E Holton's drug store.

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by C. E Holton.

The lingering cough following grippe calls for One Minute Cough Cure. For all throat nad lung troubles this is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold at C. E. Holton's drug store.

Like Oliver Twist, children ask for more when given One Minute Cough Cure. Mothers endorse it highly for croup. It quickly cures all coughs and colds and every throat and lung trouble. It is a specific for grippe and asthama and has long been a well known remedy for whooping cough. Howard Gardner.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

The sensationl comedy, "Side Tracked," which is to appear at the Academy of Music is one of the real successes of the past season. The dialogue is bright and witty, the sentiment clear and enobling, nd the situations at times thrilling and again ludicrous, always appealing to the heart, and never fails to awaken genuine enthusiasm. The company presenting the play is an unusually good one, each member being an artist in their especial line. The performance is interspersed with catchy music and some very strong specialties.

When you are bilious, use those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers to cleanse the liver and bowels. They never gripe. Howard Gardner.

LADIES FURNISHINGS STORE.

Greensboro is to have in the future a business devoted entirely to ladies' furnishings. For years there have been in the city stores catering to nothing but gentlemen's furnishings bu. not until the present has any one seen fit to start a business devoted entirely to ladies' furnishings, so that a lady wishing to purchase half a dozen different articles could get them without going to as many different stores as she had articles to buy. Seeing this need Mrs. Ned Ireland Thacker determined to supply it by giving to the ladies of the community a place where they could purchase any kind of ladies' furnishings, and millineery of every description. She has recently purchased the millinery stock of Mrs. Cator & Co., and will conduct the enlarged business at the stand formerly occupied by Mrs. Cator.

Mrs. Thacker, accompanied by Miss Hartsell, will leave tomorrow for New York, where they will be joined by Miss Martha Brown, who for several years has been well and favorably known to the ladies of this city.

Miss Brown will be the head milliner for this new firm, and this of itself is a guarantee that this department will merit the patronage of the public, and with the other conveniencese mentioned will no doubt meet with the approbation of the buying public.

DAN PACKARD OPERA COMPANY.

The Dan Packard Opera Company and orchestra which appears at the Academy of Music one night ouly, Thursday, March 7, boasts of a reputation that is seldom the luck of a similar organization. During the many years that the company has been touring the cities of the North it has yet to receive an adverse criticism. This is the second season of the company in the South, and the flattery of the press in this section of the country has been more laudable than that of the territory of its first success. What is said of the company in advance is substantiated by their excellence performance. It was the "Philadelphia Record" that first commended it as the "strongest organization of its kind in America," and quoting farther the praise of that paper, it says, "Dan Packard is the Grau of the ecomic opera. He is as enterprising as his contemporary in the field of grand opera and gives the American public at American prices, singers that draw salaries of a figure that would make the average manager shrink with fear. Dan Packard himself is no stranger to the people of the South. He is acquainted with their cultured tastes and refined ideas, and these being congenial to him, as well, it is a pleasure to him to cater to them.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D Glass, an employe of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: 'I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton.

For the weakness and prostration following grippe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly.

THE FARTHEST NORTH

Perilous Feat Accomplished by the Duke of the Abruzzi and His Party—Particulars of the Exposition.

The duke of tne Abruzzi and Capt. Cagni have furnished the data for an official report on their polar expedition which appears in the Italia Militare e Marina. The earlier stages of their experiences have already been told. What is new and interesting dates from February after their winter on Rudolf land, 200 yards from the shore, where the ice in the bay had crushed in one of the sides of the Stella Polare and let in the water. The story has already been told of an excursion about Christmas time, when the duke and Cagni fell into a crevasse. The duke lost two fingers by frost bite and the doctor forbade him to undertake the command of the expedition over the ice toward the pole. Capt. Cagni started, however, on February 20, but the intense cold and consequent difficulty with the provisions compelled him to return almost immediately. On March 11 the expedition started again. It consisted of ten officers and men, with numerous dogs and some sledges and kayaks, says an eastern exchange.

After nine days' march, during which 43½ miles were made, Cagni, finding the provisions running short, sent back Lieut. Querini with two men. These three have not been heard of since. On March 31, when the sledge expedition had passed the eighty-third parallel, Dr. Cavalli-Molinelli was sent back with two men. They, with two sledges and 16 dogs, arrived safely at the main camp on April 24, having taken four days longer to return than to go. Cagni, in the meantime, continued his journey with three of the Italian Alpine guides Canepa, Petigax and Fenouillet. Cagni worked on an equality with his companions and at night they all shared the one sleeping sack of reindeer skin. They had the advantage now of having the sun always with them. The ice softened and their way became easier. They ate their provisions as long as they lasted and then commenced to kill the dogs for food in order to live, or rather in order to attain their object. They were able to increase their speed to nine and a half miles per day and at last they reached Nansen's farthest north, 86 degrees 14 minutes. After a long and careful observation to make sure of this they passed beyond, and on April 26, 1900, they touched 86 degrees 33 minutes N. at about 56 degrees E., when they decided to turn back. No land was in sight, nothing but ice in a state of thaw. Petermann's land, which Payer believed he saw, did not exist where he stated, otherwise Cagni would have seen it early in his journey. The same is said of King Oscar land, which would otherwise have been seen on the return march.

Toward the end of May the four adventurers found themselves at the eighty-second parallel, but the condition of the ice had compelled them to keep too far to the west. On une 8 they made Harley and Ommaney islands, having passed Rudolf island without observing it. They now made the best of their way east, then northeast, and finally reached the main camp in good health on June 23 with two sledges and seven remaining dogs.

The Stella Polare still remained above the ice and Capt. Cagni succeeded in repairing her sufficiently for the return voyage, which commenced on August 15. It was highly improbable that the vessel would have withstood another winter in the ice. Two years' provisions were left at the camp in the forlorn hope that the three missing men might still return. On August 17 the Stella Polare was blocked by the ice in the British channel and remained there 13 days, but on August 30, the thirteenth day, she reached Jackson's station at Cape Flora. Six days later she was at Hammerfest, having run great danger of destruction by icebergs when 30 miles from the European mainland. On September 11 the duke and Cagni arrived at Christiania, and on September 14 they were in Turin.

The Exceptions.

"I suppose," said the visitor to the penitentiary, "that prisoners are always anxious to have their terms expire?"

"Some of them ain't," replied the guard.

"Remarkable! Which are they?"

"The ones that have life sentences."—Philadelphia Record.

Ancient Pie.

"Look here," said the customer, as he took the first bite, "I don't think much of this pie."

"What's wrong with it?" demanded the baker, fiercely. "Young man, I made pies before you were born."

"I dare say you did," was the reply, "but I didn't ask you for one of them."—Pick-Me-Up.

AN EXPENSIVE WAR.

Direct Cost of the South African Struggle to England.

The Ultimate Outlay in Trying to Overcome the Boers Will Amount to a Mountain of Money.

The cost of the South African war has now so greatly exceeded the original estimates that practically no one in authority in England seems able to make a definite calculation of what it may ultimately amount to. The borrowing powers granted to the British government by the late parliament are nearly exhausted, and heavy arrears, amounting to between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000, are pressing for payment. Against these liabilities the government has about $75,000,000 immediately available, the unexhausted borrowing power amounting to $30,000,000 and the balance of loans issued yet to be paid up $45,000,000. Of the payments in arrears much consists of the pay due the army and debts to contractors.

The indirect cost has been estimated, and the result is highly interesting, says the New York Sun. In September last the shrinkage in value of the full list of securities quoted on the London stock exchange had, as a direct consequence of the war, reached the enormous figure of nearly $2,500,000,000. The decline in the market value of consols alone has been serious, and the fall has been equally marked in municipal stocks and railway and other obligations. The increase to the national debt with the additional taxation to meet the interest payments has also to be taken into account. Then there is the expense of the permanent garrison, estimated at 50,000 men, which will have to be kept up for an undetermined period out of the pocket of the British taxpayer, for there is no present visible source of revenue in South Africa from which the cost can be paid.

But the matter does not end here. The increase and the reorganization of the army have to be provided for, and millions will have to be spent in bringing the stores of ammunition and other war material up to the requirements of the new policy. Already orders for $30,000,000 worth of new guns have been placed, to be followed by others the amount of which has not yet been decided on.

It is not, however, in England only that the direct cost of the war is making itself felt by the taxpayers. The shortage of revenue in Cape Colony this year is estimated by the minister of finance at not less than $12,915,000, which he proposes to borrow, though the reception which a proposal to raise a small loan in the London market a few months ago met with does not seem to encourage fresh applications in the same quarter. In the nature of things it will be some years before the waste and destruction worked by the war have been made good, and meantime the course of trade which in the past was favorable to Cape Colony will take other channels. Durban, in Natal, and Lorenzo Marques are so much nearer to Bloemfontein and Pretoria than Cape Town that supplies and traffic may be expected to take the shorter routes. This will affect the revenues of Cape Colony derivable from the railways.

No boom is to be looked for after the war is oven, the sacrifices made by the Cape farmers or imposed on them having been too great to permit their launching out into extravagances of any kind for a long time to come. The reduction of the imperial expenditure consequent on the withdrawal from the country of the great portion of the British army will cause a sudden reduction in the trade depending on it and bring about a great curtailment of the profits of those engaged in it and on which they depend for their living. The latest accounts from the late Orange Free State describe it as reduced almost to the condition of a desert, the Boer homesteads in ruins and the flocks and herds either carried off to supply the wants of the army of occupation or scattered over the veldt, where they are a prey to the wild beasts that are making their appearance in considerable numbers as a result of the disappearance of the population. The cessation of the production of gold during the period of the war is also among the indirect losses caused by it.

Comforts of Life in Kalamazoo.

"Yes," said the man who was sitting out in front of a log house, "there is some malaria around here."

"Do you suffer much from it?"

"I don't suffer as much as I useter. When I'm havin' a chill I think about how good an' warm I'll be when the fever comes, an' when I have the fever I think about how cool the chill will be, an' that way I manage to git right smart o' comfort."—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Ants in Ceylon That Have a Queer Way of Fastening Leaves Together.

Mr. E. G. Green, government entomologist at the botanic gardens at Peradenlya, Ceylon, tells a most curious story about the red ant (Oecophila smaragdina), says the Little Chronicle. Desiring to confirm the reported web-spinning habits of these ants, he separated some leaves that had been recently fastened together by them. The ants quickly drew the edges of the leaves together and in about an hour afterwards he noticed that small white grubs were being passed backwards and forwards across the gaps. Two ants held each a grub in its mouth and directed its movements as required, while from the mouth of the larva a continuous thread of silk proceeded and was used to repair the damage—the larvae were actually used as spinning machines. There were no larvae in the disturbed inclosure. They were most likely obtained from a nest a short distance away, and this no doubt accounts for the length of time passed before the rent was repaired.

The stomach controls the situation. Those who are hearty and strong are those who can eat and digest plenty of food. Kodol Dyspepsia C ure digests what you eat and allows you to eat all the good food you want. If you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, belching or any other stomach trouble, this preparation can't help but do you good. The most sensitive stomachs can take it. Howard Gardner.

BLOOD
We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.
There is nothing else to live on or by.
When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.
This is health.
When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.
Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil. It sets the whole body going again—man woman and child.
We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

HOME FOR BACHELORS

Novel Plans of an Actress for New York Apartment Building.

Will Introduce a Lot of New Wrinkles for the Ease and Comfort of Single Men—No More Buttonless Shirts.

May Irwin announces that she is going to encourage and foster bachelorhood by building a bachelor apartment house with a lot of new wrinkles for the ease and comfort of the tenants. To do this has been one of her pet schemes ever since she began to invest her surplus revenue in New York real estate several years ago.

She doesn't think that the bachelors of this city are properly cared for. Their trousers get frayed in spite of their incomes, she says, and regardless of the fact that they live in apartments with an alleged valet service thrown in with the hot and cold water and steam heat. There is to be a woman housekeeper, who will have charge of the laundry, mending, trouser-pressing and shoe polishing departments. She will study the needs and whims of all the tenants and then boss the valets, so that they will gratify the whims and supply the needs. She will inspect all the shirts before they are sent back from the laundry and mending-room to the suites of their wearers, and not a button shall be missing. Mrs. Irwin says that this care of the buttons is a scheme original with her, and that it will do more than anything else to make her bachelor apartments a success.

The rent will be high and the house will be exclusive, says the press agent. Miss Irwin is now working on some secret plans for an automatic buttonometer which she has invented.

A BRILLIANT RECORD.

English Mill Hand Wins a Fellowship at Oxford in Face of Great Obstacles.

The gradual removal of the social barriers which formerly restricted English political and educational life was never better instanced than by the appointment just made of Mr. Joseph Owen to a fellowship at Oxford. Six years ago Mr. Owen was a mill hand at Oldham, helping to support his poor parents. He attended at night the university extension lectures, and so much ability did he show that the lecturers got up a fund and sent him to the great university, where, with his wife, he settled down in a humble cottage. He knew no Greek and little Latin. His first success came when he won the Brackenburg history scholarship, to the surprise of many learned, aristocratic competitors. Four years of determined, uphill work passed and the final examinations drew near. On a position in these depended Mr. Owen's whole future. A few weeks before the ordeal his young wife died suddenly. Mr. Owen's friends thought it impossible for him to accomplish anything, but the mill hand's grit stood the strain and Mr. Owen gained the coveted first-class with the degree. His appointment as extension lecturer quickly followed, and Mr. Owen lectured where, six years previous, he had learned. The climax in his career came when Pembroke college elected Mr. Owen, out of all the Oxonians, to the lucrative and honored post of fellowship.

YOUNG WOMEN SEEK FREEDOM

A twentieth century club was formed at Binghamton, N. Y., the other day, embodying a score of society girls who have pledged themselves to advance the social interests of their sex in every way, and especially to aid in forming and following ideas of greater social freedom among women. It is held that the customs of the last century, especially those of courting, were not only foolish, but peculiarly detrimental to women. Each member of the club has pledged herself to seriously propose marriage to some unmarried eligible man within a year.

Sections of the by-laws forbid certain modes of dress, including the wearing of corsets, and the object of the club is stated to be not to make the coming women more masculine, but to make her more womanly. Girls of 18 or more are eligible for membership, and one of the obligations imposed is a pledge to do a certain amount of reading each day, the subjects to be selected quarterly by the board of directors of the club.

There are few original pictures of Gen. Washington in England, hence the discovery of another miniature is interesting. It is by Sam Folwell and is dated 1791. Another by the same artist is now in the possession of the Historical Society of Philadelphia, dated 1796. The new find is supposed to be an excellent likeness. It represents Washington wearing a pigtail.
